LOVE THE WAY YOU BUILD

I'm Ed Chang. I am part of a group of LEGO® fans who are also railway fans. I am a doctor, and live in the United States, in Texas.

I've been building with LEGO bricks for as long as I can remember. I mostly build trains and cities – sometimes I build things like models of historic landmarks and real trains, and sometimes I build things like mermaid aquariums and LEGO DUPLO® trains.

I love building trains because these builds combine both creativity and problem solving

Sometimes I think about how to use a unique color or how to build curved shapes. Other times the challenge is how to make a train go, stop and reverse by itself, using the LEGO Powered Up system.

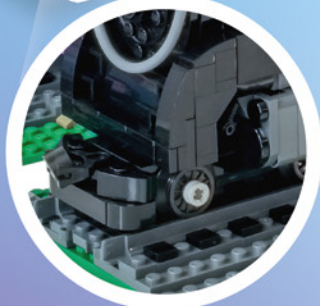

What do you love building?

I plan many of my creations using a computer program

This lets me sketch out ideas, see how everything will fit together, and try out different color combinations, before building with real bricks.

How do you plan your builds?

My favorite LEGO® building technique is SNOT

SNOT means 'studs-not-on-top'. By building sideways using special bricks and brackets, I can make a bigger variety of shapes and add more details to my models.

What is your favorite building technique?

What will you build today?
